Overview

On March 9, 2020, Governor Phil Murphy issued Executive Order 103, declaring a State of Emergency and a Public Health Emergency to ramp up New Jersey's efforts to contain the spread of COVID-19. Governor Murphy extended the Public Health Emergency multiple times, formally ending it on June 4, 2021.

Subsequent containment measures were implemented, including restrictions on public gatherings and mandated closure of non-essential businesses. While these measures were consistent with similar measures being taken nationally to limit the public's exposure to COVID-19, there has been a significant adverse impact on the state's economy.

Businesses classified as "Food Services and Drinking Places" under NAICS code 722 (described in this document as "Restaurants"), have been disproportionately impacted by COVID-19, because of caps on location dining and unusual costs incurred to adapt business models for safe operations.

With the Public Health Emergency in place and millions of New Jerseyans abruptly staying home, restaurant revenue plummeted or disappeared, and many restaurants had little choice but to change – or abandon – their operating model, with some having to close their doors completely and lay off or furlough all staff. Many restaurants that changed their operating model shifted to a takeout-only model, which resulted in a significant reduction in staff.

In 2019, according to the New Jersey Department of Labor and Workforce Development (NJDOL), 270,000 restaurant workers were employed in New Jersey. From March 2020 to April 2021, NJDOL reports that nearly 107,000 restaurant workers have filed Unemployment Insurance claims. In 2018, the National Restaurant Association reported there were over 19,000 restaurants in New Jersey.

Prior to the pandemic, the sector was growing, with NJDOL projecting the sector would expand by more than 12 percent by 2026. During the pandemic, the New Jersey Restaurant and Hospitality Association estimated that as many as 30 percent of New Jersey restaurants remained at risk of permanent closure.

While these figures are staggering, they were likely mitigated, in part, due to several New Jersey-based initiatives that emerged in direct response to COVID-19, that share the same core function, i.e., the bulk purchase of pre-made meals from New Jersey restaurants, which were then distributed for free to target populations.

Specifically, these initiatives aimed to achieve two central goals: to provide urgently needed revenue to restaurants to offset direct losses due to COVID-19, particularly, restaurants that had temporarily closed, were preparing to close, and/or reduced their staff through layoffs or furloughs; and to distribute free meals purchased from local restaurants to target populations, including low-income individuals, senior citizens, health care workers, and first responders.

To build on these initiatives and other restaurant support programs implemented by the New Jersey Economic Development Authority (NJEDA or Authority), the Authority announced the launch of the Sustain and Serve NJ program in November 2020. In the first phase of grants announced in February 2021, NJEDA awarded more than $14 million to 28 organizations across the state, supporting the purchase of more than 1.5 million meals from over 340 restaurants.

Purpose

The purpose of the Sustain and Serve NJ Program is to provide urgently needed revenue to New Jersey-based restaurants to offset direct losses due to COVID-19, including restaurants that had temporarily closed, were preparing to close, and/or reduced their staff through layoffs or furloughs.

Under the program, up to $10 million will be utilized to make grants of a minimum of $100,000 and maximum of $2 million to entities to support prospective expenses for making bulk meal purchases from New Jersey-based restaurants negatively impacted by COVID-19.

As part of the Serve and Sustain NJ Program requirements, the grantee is prohibited from reselling any meals purchased with grant funding.

Eligible Uses

Under the Sustain and Serve NJ Program, grant funding may only be used for direct costs associated with bulk purchasing of meals that are projected to be incurred between date of grant execution and January 31, 2022, for: the restaurant's costs of food and ingredients; labor, packaging, and facilities; and, any profit margin for the restaurant.

No other expense(s) incurred by the applicant, whether in support of the meal purchase from the restaurant or otherwise, is eligible, including, but not limited to: indirect/overhead costs incurred by the applicant (e.g., rent, insurance), transportation, distribution, marketing, communications, sales tax and gratuity.

Grant Amounts

The Sustain and Serve NJ Program offers a minimum grant amount of $100,000 and maximum of $2 million, with grant awards calculated based on the projected number of meals to be purchased and estimated cost (per meal), excluding sales tax, gratuity, and delivery fees.

Under the Sustain and Serve NJ Program, meal purchases will be reimbursed based on a flat rate per meal. Although there is no exclusion for entities purchasing meals from restaurants at more than $10 per meal, grant funding will be capped at $10 per meal.

As part of the application for grant funding, entities will request a grant amount based on the projected number of meals to be purchased and estimated cost (per meal), excluding sales tax gratuity, and delivery fees. All grant estimates must be based on a flat rate per meal, subject to the cap of $10 per meal. For any grant that is awarded, disbursement of the total grant amount will be made incrementally from NJEDA to the grantee as eligible expenses are incurred and disbursement is requested by the grantee. These disbursement requests must document that the expenses actually incurred are consistent with eligible uses of grant funding (i.e., the quantity of meals purchased, the cost per meal, and the restaurant from which the meals were purchased).

Once the NJEDA receives all applications, if the total amount of grant funding requested among all eligible applications exceeds the $10 million available for the Program, NJEDA will prorate grant awards based upon the amount determined for each eligible applicant, reducing all grant awards to reflect an eligible applicant's share of the eligible pool.

Restaurants may not directly apply for this grant. Restaurants interested in the program can contact an entity with an established bulk meal purchasing and distribution program to discuss potential participation. A list of current Sustain and Serve NJ grantees can be found here. Restaurants may also opt to have their business publicly listed on the Sustain and Serve NJ page of the New Jersey COVID-19 Business Hub. To list your restaurant, please fill out this form. Potential grant applicants may choose to refer to this registry and contact restaurants about participating in the Sustain and Serve NJ program. Inclusion on this list is not an endorsement from the New Jersey Economic Development Authority as to eligibility for Sustain and Serve NJ. All parties are strongly advised to exercise due diligence when selecting participating restaurants.

As noted above, eligible applicants must have a demonstrated history of making bulk meal purchases from New Jersey-based restaurants totaling at least 3,000 meals valued at least $50,000 between March 9, 2020 and June 28, 2021.

Funding Disbursement

Sustain and Serve NJ is a reimbursement-based grant. For each grant award, the total amount will be disbursed incrementally as eligible projected expenses are incurred and disbursement is requested from the NJEDA by the grantee. The disbursement requests must be evidenced by documentation supporting that the expenses were actually incurred and consistent with eligible uses of grant funding (i.e., quantity of meals purchased, cost per meal, total cost, description of purchased item(s), and restaurant from which the meals were purchased).

During the term of the grant, the grantee may request a change or addition to participating restaurant(s), which must be submitted in writing, from which they may purchase meals and receive reimbursement through Sustain and Serve NJ. Requests for changes or additions to restaurants will be reviewed by NJEDA.

Application Process

Online applications will be accepted from June 28, 2021 through July 18, 2021, and all applications will be reviewed following the closure of the application period.

Applications for Sustain and Serve NJ are completed in three parts:

- 1) Applicants are first required to submit an application that includes listing proposed restaurants for meal purchases;
- 2) Listed restaurants will then receive a short form directly from NJEDA they must complete if they wish to be eligible for meal purchases through Sustain and Serve NJ; and
- 3) Applicants are sent the restaurant submission to review and approve before it is sent to NJEDA. Approvals must be completed by the application deadline for consideration for meal purchase reimbursement through Sustain and Serve NJ.

Applicants are responsible for ensuring restaurants have submitted materials by the application deadline. Applicants should allow sufficient time for submission of both their own and their listed restaurants' materials.

Fees

Due to financial hardship of the ultimate beneficiaries, NJEDA will collect no fees from the applicant for this program.
